SLAUGHTER OF INDIANS.

Thirty Renegade Cheyennes Killed by U. S. Troops.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—The Times Port Robinson correspondent gives the following description of the scenes attending the hunting of escaped Indians Thursday night: Having got up with the retreating savages, the entire command poured volley after volley into the renegades which terribly fatal results, killing over twenty and wounding as many more before the savages succeeded in gaining the hills. At this point Maj. Vroom, commanding companies A, E, F and L, of 3d Cavalry, who were encamped at the old camp occupied by the 4th Cavalry a year ago, on hearing the firing suspected the cause and his troopers were soon after in the saddle and joined in the chase, galloping at full speed in the direction where the flash of carbines and the shouts of the troops were heard, among the hills. At 12:15 A. M. the work of carrying the dead and wounded from the snow was commenced. All the dead found were dead, and about twenty squaws and pappooses were picked up and ordered to the post. On an examination of the women and children by Surgeons Mosely and Pettis several were found to have been dangerously wounded. Many had limbs badly frozen; five of those shot died very soon after getting their wounds dressed, and as many more are expected to die before the sun rises. The troops succeeded in capturing several savages. During the day a detachment of soldiers came up to a party of six savages in a washout. They refused to come out, whereupon Private Everett, of company H, third cavalry, went to the mouth of the washout with the intention of assuring them that if they would come forth they would not be harmed. As soon as Everett got near the mouth of the washout he was shot in the abdomen by one of the savages, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. The savage who shot him was instantly dispatched by the happy hunting ground, being shot through the head by a companion of Everett. The remaining renegades in the washout were pulled out and sent under guard to the post.

The Times correspondent visited the place where the dead bodies were collected, awaiting burial at noon to-day. The pile consisted of twenty bucks, eight squaws and two papooses. Their grinning visages, as they lay there on the snow in death's cold embrace and nearly naked, presented a sight that beggars description.

At this writing the troops are still in pursuit, and important news is expected soon.

There were two soldiers killed: Private Smith of Company A, and private Everett of Company H, 3d Cavalry.

PACIFIC RAILROAD EXTORTIONS.

THE MONSTROUS MONOPOLY—CAST-IRON CONTRACTS—ACTION IN CONGRESS AGAINST THE GREEDY EXTORTIONISTS.

[From the New York Herald, Jan. 4.]

For a long time merchants who do business with the Pacific slope have been complaining of the cast-iron contracts which they have been forced to make with the Pacific railroads. The bill to remedy their grievances passed the house of representatives On Wednesday the Herald published a petition of merchants to the senate, asking that body to indorse the action of the house. An effort to secure a copy of one of these contracts met with success yesterday. According to it the merchants covenant and agree, in consideration of special rates of freight slightly lower than the regular tariff, to ship or cause to be shipped by way of the Union Pacific and such other connecting railways as may be designated from time to time by the general freight agent of the Union Pacific railway goods, wares and merchandise purchased, sold or goods, wares shipped by or consigned to a merchant from any point in the United States or Canada, east of the meridian of Omaha, for sale or use on the Pacific coast during a specified time.

The contract says that the object and purpose of the agreement is to secure for and give to the Union Pacific the transportation of not only that class and portion of freight of the merchant which has hitherto been shipped by rail, but also all that which the merchant has been accustomed to ship by sea. The merchant who gives all his freight to the Union Pacific is informed in the contract that special rates of freight are for his sole use and benefit, and he is forbidden to allow the use of his name or shipping marks in any way or upon any class of freight by any other party which shall secure for the latter the benefit of special rates of freight. The Union Pacific also assumes the privilege of designating at its pleasure the carriers by which to ship this freight to Council Bluffs or Omaha, and if the merchants do not ship their goods by the designated carriers then the Union Pacific shall not be held responsible for any overcharge in the rates of freight. The merchant is obliged to describe accurately all freight, so that the proper rate may be applied when it is inspected by the carrier, but when there is any doubt carriers have the right to open and inspect the package, and if it is discovered that the merchant has not truly described its contents, then the carrier will have the right to charge in all such cases double the regular tariff. The carriers are also released from all liability for shortage of goods packed in bales, and all other liabilities as insurers of any and all goods, for which the tariff provides two rates, the lowest of which is conditioned upon signing by the shipper of the release of the form furnished by the company. The Union Pacific can also at its option "way bill" at special rates, or at the tariff rates current at the time of shipment, all or any of the freight covered by agreement. In the latter case, charges "way bill" must be paid by the merchant upon the delivery of the freight, and at the end of each calendar month, upon the presentation of the bill for the charges paid to the general freight agent of the Central Pacific at San Francisco, together with bills of lading for such freight, or within reasonable time thereafter. The difference upon the charges collected upon the delivery of freight and the amount to be paid under agreement shall be refunded to the merchant. The merchant is bound, if he wants to break the contract to give the Union Pacific sixty days' notice, and he cannot send any goods to the Pacific coast by sea or any other route if there is any possibility of the arrival of the same in the state of California before the expiration of that time.

Seymour to the Front Again.

[New Haven Register, (Dem.)]

While Bayard is able and brilliant he is also young,—too young to be president,—and he hails from a southern state. Bayard is particularly obnoxious to the Greenback Democrats, and for that reason is not a safe candidate. Seymour has made no recent record on the subject. He is a Democrat, and easily chief of the party. No Democrat can object, with reason, to supporting him. Bayard contains the making of a great Democratic leader and statesman. He occupies a commanding political situation. New York must be carried to elect a Democratic president. True, he was defeated once, but he had no chance of election. With the south on shoulder Seymour was handicapped. With the south free he is the strongest man the Democrats can name.

Basis of Representation in the Republican National Convention.

[Indianapolis Journal, Rep.]

In all probability not a single southern state will vote for the Republican candidate in 1880, yet they can come within 40 votes of naming him in convention. This is not right. The present basis of representation is wrong. Instead of being based on the electoral vote, it should be based on the number of Republican votes cast at a preceding election. This would give Republican states their proper preponderance in convention and prevent the anomaly of a Republican candidate being nominated by Democratic States.

Marine Disaster.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The brig Don Quixote, from New York for Limerick, was spoken at sea by the steamship Nurnberg. The Don Quixote had lost captain, mate, and two seamen. They were washed overboard. The Nurnberg put three men on board to assist the vessel into port.

Cabullians Fleeing.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The viceroy of India telegraphs that Gen. Stewart on the eighth inst. received news that the governor of Candahar, with most of the Cabul officials, fled towards Herat, and the garrison then disbanded. The deputy governor sent in his submission. The British troops march through Candahar to-day.

Pardon of Communists.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The government proposes to pardon all the communists, except 400 ringleaders, who were participators in the massacres.

Trusting their Friends.

At a recent meeting of the delegates of the left, Defaure, president of the ministry, favored intrusting the great military commands to generals favorable to the republic. He acknowledged that modifications in the magistracy were necessary, but objected to wholesale changes.

Discipline for German Law Makers.

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Rumors have been circulating that the chancellor was casting about for power to prevent members of the reichstag from using unbecoming expressions, and now the city is in a commotion by the publication of the outlines of a bill aiming at the federal council. The document bears date "Friedrichsruhe, Dec. 1st," and places the power of punishment of members of the reichstag in the hands of two vice-presidents and ten members, to meet at order of the president of the house, or on motion of twenty members. The committee would be authorized to inflict penalties, viz: First, to order a member to receive public reproof before the assembled house; second, to oblige the offender to make an apology before the assembled house; third, to exclude a deputy from the reichstag for a fixed period. Should this exclusion extend to the entire term of the session of the legislature the member so punished may also be liable to lose the right of being re-elected to the reichstag; and further, an independent motion in favor of depriving a deputy of his right of election may be brought forward in the house. If unbecoming conduct of which a member is pronounced guilty involves an action punishable by the common law the deputy may be handed over to the judicial authorities simultaneously with the infliction of punishment by the reichstag. The reproduction of the speech or remarks which called it forth, in a stenographic report or any other publication of them, in the house may be prohibited, and a contravention of this prohibition will be punishable with imprisonment from three weeks to three months.

How the Proposed Rules will Work.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A correspondent at Berlin says of the proposed bill affecting the reichstag, that it practically abolishes all guarantees of freedom of debate. With the bill, it is in the power of the majority to turn any offending member over to the courts. It makes it a penal offense for the press to publish any speech which has been censured by the president of the diet. It is nominally aimed at Socialist deputies, for the law could be applied or misapplied to any objectionable speech. The bill was wholly unexpected, and seems to alarm even National Liberals, but they will probably reconcile themselves to it before it comes to vote in the diet.

The German Gag Law Enforced.

Franz Dunker, ex-member of the German-Prussian parliament, has been prosecuted by the Prussian ministry for writing an article in the Volks Zeitung on the 15th of August, criticising the Socialist bill, and has been fined 200 marks.

Sound Doctrine from the Pope.

ROME, Jan. 11.—The pope's encyclical letter occupies seven columns of the Osservatore Romano. The pope inveighs against socialism, communism, and nihilism, which militate no longer secretly, but openly, against the civil state, rupturing the matrimonial tie, ignoring the rights of property, claiming everything, however legally inherited or honestly acquired, and attempting even the lives of kings.

Shere Ali in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 11.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says that the ameer entered Russian territory, not in consequence of the success of the British, but to invoke the mediation of Russia. The ameer will receive sympathetic popularity, but the idea of mediation is an illusion, upon the clearing up of which will probably depend the continuation of his journey.

Nothing Like being "Organized."

[From the Salem Statesman.]

Senator Grover rises to explain his part of the report of the investigating committee, and reads from his own published reports to show his innocence. The senator will hardly be able to convince the world that he is guiltless of the things alleged. He doubtless read from his message setting forth the great work of his clerical force where he said: "The services of all these gentlemen (his clerks) have been unremitting, and their work is well exhibited in the permanent records of the state." It is permanently recorded that Grover loaned himself, through straw parties, $10,000 of the school fund on inadequate security, to say nothing of the large sums loaned to partisan friends for personal ends. He probably read again from his message of 1874, where he said: "No public moneys have been used unless previously appropriated by the legislature for specific purposes to which they have been devoted," and then pointed with pride to the sum paid H. H. Gilfry to bear his expenses to Washington and his bold signature to Foudry's voucher for pay for returning S. E. May, also to the large sums paid to J. N. Barker, J. N. T. Miller, Quincy A. Brooks and others for selecting (?) swamp lands; and also Joseph G. Gaston for attorney fees' wherein the state paid $1,601 20 to secure a title to lands worth only $200. The senator no doubt arose and read in that hollow sepulchral tone of voice his message, where he said: "There has not been a default or the negligent use of public moneys to the amount of one dollar, by any public officer or employe of the state, during the four years, that I know of;" and then pointed with pride to the $349,000 of outstanding warrants unpaid for the want of funds piled up during the first four years of his administration. And thus the senator proceeded to prove seriatim every allegation, for he had the documents even to his exhaustive opinions in the "Gabble fraud." There is nothing like being "organized."

The Seattle Intelligencer gives the following particulars of the Orcas Island murder: Phillips, who was shot, had been living with a clootchman for years past near the Huskin on Orcas island. On Tuesday evening, the 24th ult., there was a dance given in that neighborhood, which was attended by Phillips and his squaw. During the festivities of the occasion Phillips paid considerable attention to a young and handsome half breed, which actions did not meet the approbation of his own maiden of the forest, who told him in plain language that she would fix him when she got him home. After a little lively quarrel between them the matter quieted down, and no one expected to hear any more regarding it. But this supposition proved unfounded, as the sequel will show. The next day after arriving home Phillips and a half-breed boy of hers, 18 years of age, started up the road, and before proceeding very far were fired upon by the squaw, who had procured a shot gun and secreted herself in the brush to await their arrival. Phillips fell a victim to the first shot.

San Francisco's Death Record.

This week there were 129 deaths in this city, the highest during any one week since January, 1877, when the smallpox epidemic prevailed. The most fatal diseases were consumption and pneumonia, 23 dying from the former and 22 from the latter.

That Harbor of Refuge Bill.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—In the senate yesterday Mitchell made a speech in advocacy of the bill appropriating $500,000 to commence the construction of a breakwater and harbor of refuge at some point between the straits of Fuca and the 42d parallel, to be selected by the board of engineers of the Pacific coast.

Death of Another Congressman.

Representative Schleicher died at about 11 o'clock last night. A meeting of the members of both houses of congress from Texas and other friends of the deceased, will be held to-morrow to take proper action concerning the disposition of his remains.

Major Reno's Case.

Major Reno arrived in Chicago yesterday, and the court of inquiry will begin its session on his case Monday. The court will partake of the nature of a grand jury, and will hear all the evidence against Major Reno and report to the authorities at Washington, who will decide whether it merits proceedings by court martial. Col. John H. King, 9th infantry, Col. Wesley Merritt, 5th cavalry, and Lieut. Col. W. B. Royal, 3d cavalry, are the court as constituted.

Convicted of Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—The trial of Troy Dye, ex public administrator of Sacramento county, for the murder of A. M. Tullis, was concluded early this morning. The jury, after being out twenty minutes, found a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

NEVADA.

Accident in the Con. Virginia Mine.

VIRGINIA CITY, Jan. 11.—At one o'clock this morning the shaft of the main engine of the Con. Virginia works broke, and before the engine could be got under control, a tremendous amount of damage was done. Fragments of the machinery flew in all directions, almost demolishing the interior of the building. The air compressor at the rear was broken in two, timbers and rafters reduced to kindling wood, and a piece of the engine weighing 800 pounds was sent clear through the roof smashing up a cottage 600 feet away. Workmen were all the morning clearing away the debris, and by noon to-day the damage was estimated at $10,000. New machinery was telegraphed for at once. No one was hurt.

SCIENCE, RELIGION AND THE CLASSICS.

[Extracts from an address recently delivered at Syracuse by Dr. Alexander Winchell.]

The classical age has bequeathed us philosophy and mathematics, poetry, oratory and sculpture; it has given us tongues whose mechanism and finish have been the just admiration of all succeeding ages. But it is not these gifts of antiquity which have borne us onward to our present "Progress began when modern science brought new ideas into the world. It is science—and pre eminently physical science—which is the creator of modern civilization. I shall not affirm that Christianity has opposed the march of science. Christianity has furnished the conditions under which science has flourished. Take from the world the Christian principles which conserve the moral health of society, and the body of science is paralyzed. There can be no science where Christian morals and Christian piety have not laid a social foundation on which science may be reared. But ignorance has nerved the arm of the religious devotee to strike murderous blows at science The system of religion, in each age, has by a law of the religious instinct, embodied in itself all contemporary beliefs; and, as the great body of beliefs are purely secular, resting on evidence essentially scientific, the progress of science has left the religious system behind, hugging its dead faiths, weeping over the wounds of ecclesiasticism, and cursing the sacrilege of science which robs it of its darling rags

Does the choice lie, then, between culture and progress? Emphatically no. We are at liberty to choose culture with progress. If the learning of the ancients can afford us only culture, let us seek the learning of the moderns, which brings both culture and knowledge. I have heard it stoutly maintained that the only means of real culture is the pursuit of the learning of the ancients. The sciences, it is said, are utilitarian, materialistic and paralyzing to true culture. O, soul of Kepler! Did not the gates of heaven fly open more widely to receive thee than the pious prelate who silenced thy earthly tongue?

The study of the classical languages develops verbal memory and the power of criticism; the study of classical style habituates the mind to graceful diction, and gives a bent favorable to elegant composition. Mythology, history, ethics, apothegms—these are subject matter, the possession of which undoubtedly exerts a reflex influence upon the mind, and possess a cultural value; but when ever the contents of the classical authors may be worth, are they not all spread out in English editions?

The technical limits of botany and zoology are better than a Latin lexicon. And if we must have languages, behold the Greek like German, and the sonorous Italian, in which we still hear the echoes of the Ciceronian periods. Is it critical acuteness which we seek to develop? Try your hand at studying the delicate reactions in the chemist's tubes, and weighing the chemist's infinitesimal precipitates. Practise your eye in co-ordinating the lines of the various spectra. Is it judgment which we wish to enlarge? Weigh the diversified characters presented by a group of birds, or fishes, or shells, and dispose them, according to the weight of the respective characters, into species, genera, families and orders. Select a fossil bone from a box of debris, and by pure reasoning build up the complete animal around it Is imagination sterile? Fear not the realistic influence of science, for it is imagination which pioneers the understanding over unexplored territories.

I claim for science a form of culture to which languages and literatures are wholly alien. The conceptions of science enlarge and liberalize the soul, and bring it into moving relations with the unseen world. The ox grazes within the limits of the fenced field, and is content. The Australian ranges to the shores of his continent, and lanquishes the surging sea the border of immensity. Of other lands and more powerful peoples he has no thought. Commerce and enterprise have pushed into every clime, and made common the possessions of every land. Has Greece the power thus to enlarge our appreciations of the material universe in which we form a speck?

Do you say that science is materialistic, when she brings her devotee, at every boundary of her domain, into the neighborhood of supermaterial verities? Do you say that science is impious, when she gathers up for us the testimonies of a thousand nations and tribes, proclaiming with one voice a religious constituent in human nature? Do you say that science is atheistic, when she leads you back to a beginning of the history of matter, when you feel is not a beginning, and there drops her head and bids you listen reverently to the voices of your own soul? Oh, blindly mad religionist! Hater and maligner of the inspired prophet of science pressing with unearthly energy through the universe of material phenomena, in search of that golden boundary where the soul may look out upon the promised land of spiritual being. Oh, dead, but speaking corpse, that thinkest moonlight the sun's effulgent glow, why has the tide of years borne thee from the ages of night and bigotry, to lie an offense upon the silver strand of our own blessed age? Oh, for another glimpse of that peaceful land, on the other side of Jordan, where bigots cease from troubling, and science is at rest. We turn, now, to the civic mechanism provided for imparting knowledge. Are our schools imbued with this modern spirit? Are they pervaded and actuated by a generous comprehension of the relation of science to modern life? I shall stand by the schools, as long as I can strike a blow in their defense, but I shall dare to point out their defects, and labor for their improvement. Our schools, throughout all their grades, are suffering from the disease of mediævalism. They are in the grip of conservatism, which never relaxes its hold, save for dear life itself. We trace the lineage of our modern schools to the bosom of the dark ages. They were created to disseminate the ancient learning which had found a new birth in the Italian peninsula.

Permit me to indicate more specifically some defects in the curriculum of our schools. The belief is too prevalent and too controlling that no high scholarship is possible except through a course of classical study. Banish the thought from existence. I have shown that all which linguistic culture furnishes is offered by living languages. I have reminded you that all which is valuable in the subject matter of ancient literature is accessible through the mother tongue. I have shown that a high order of culture, to which classical study can never attain, is offered by the pursuit of the physical sciences. But let me utter a warning. Subtract from the curriculum as now constituted all classical study, and what remains will not constitute a liberal education. A cultural scientific course—an efficient scientific course—cannot be framed by setting apart the scientific branches of the conventional course. Culture sustains an invariable ratio to hard work. If the conventional course embraces six years of Latin and Greek we must substitute for them six years of modern languages and natural science. I promise high culture and liberal education on no other condition.

Again: we may drop from our schools one half of the arithmetic with which they are burdened; and from our colleges all the higher mathematics. Again, too many months of secondary education are wasted in committing to memory geographical names in obscure quarters of the world, and in puzzling over the abstractions of syntax and the analysis of sentences. Geography may be studied from maps of a later period, at convenient intervals, and according to the demands of current events Syntax belongs to a maturer intellectual stage, and may be advantageously learned as a branch of general grammar. In place of these crudities and antiquities, I would introduce chemistry, physics, mineralogy, botany, geology, zoology and astronomy into schools of all grades. A reading and speaking knowledge ought to be acquired of French, German and Italian. Our nearest national neighbors speak the Spanish; and one of our best and most valuable friends employs the Portuguese. These languages are eminently worthy of attention. I fully agree with distinguished authority in saying that no person can be called educated who only speaks his vernacular. The easy acquisition of languages belongs to early childhood. Base ball, cricket, foot ball and boating are not the only athletic resorts which combine amusement with exercise. The whittling instinct is irresistible at times in the youth, and I would suggest that we furnish him a whittling stick instead of leaving him to deface the desks at the cost of his skin? As well thrash a boy for sneezing. The whittling shop may develop into a toy factory, a cabinet factory, or a wood carving establishment.

I must do my theme the justice to add that our ill-assorted and mediævalized education is productive of varied and endless evils in the field of religion. Old bigotry never argues. It cites Scripture and the opinions of the fathers, and cuts throats. It spits, and scolds, and stamps its foot. As well send a squad, under shelter of umbrellas, to make faces at an impregnable redoubt. The theological student, I understand, becomes well posted in the arguments employed against Arianism and Pelagianism, and Socinianism, and Gnosticism, and Manichæanism, and Homoiousianism, and every other antiquitism and absolutism: and learns to scent them in a scientific volume without turning its pages; but there is Darwinism, a thousand times more threatening to rheumatic old credulity, but where has a Doctor of Darwinism or anti-Darwinism been elected professor in a theological school? My friends, evolution is harm less toward Bible Christianity; it will yet fight the battles of Christianity. But it will bury the carcasses of the dead old war horses so deep that they will never be disturbed by the tramp of progress over their heads.

THURMAN AND SHERMAN.

A DEMOCRATIC PAPER'S GOSSIP ABOUT THEIR POLITICAL ASPIRATIONS.

[Washington Cor. of the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Notwithstanding the emphatic and irrevocable determination of Senator Thurman not to make the gubernatorial race in Ohio, he is daily beset with letters and telegrams to induce him to change his mind; or, at all events, at this distance from the campaign, to leave the matter an open question to be settled in the future rather than to adhere to his decision not to stand under any circumstances. To all of these pleadings and importunities Judge Thurman gives a deaf ear, and to-day he is just as decided not to be a candidate as he was some weeks ago, when he authorized your correspondent to deny without equivocation that he was or could be induced to be. Judge Thurman's declination, it will be remembered, was based upon two reasons: First, a becoming modesty, not to rob others younger in the party of the coveted honor; and, second, the plea that his health would not permit him to make such a vigorous canvass as the nominee would be compelled to undergo. In the interview with your correspondent on the subject Judge Thurman left only this impression upon your correspondent's mind. Subsequent conversations, however, with those in Thurman's confidence beget the impression that there are mightier reasons than these why he is not willing to stand the hazard of the die. It may be premature to predict, but there is a growing feeling here that Secretary Sherman is not only willing but is anxious to make the gubernatorial canvass for the Republicans. With the expiration of the present administration Sherman has no political future, unless, meanwhile, he pre empts for himself a place. He has everything to gain and nothing to lose, even though he sustained defeat. He is diametrically opposed to Thurman, who would lose everything by defeat. Should Sherman make the canvass and win, and carry with his victory a legislature, he is adroit enough to manage an election to the senate, and with this phantom in view Sherman would take the chance It would be the end of Sherman, probably forever, if he lost, and it would put Thurman well in the background should defeat overtake him. Per contra, if Thurman is such a canvass won, it would give him such a prestige which would probably grow so strong that by the time of the assembling of the National Democratic convention his name would be placed in nomination by acclamation for the presidency. Even with the chance of such a contingency, and with the active and incessant buzz of the presidential bee in his bonnet, he will decline to make the race. Not that he fears Sherman on the common level, but that he does fear the powerful influence of the moneyed combinations which would be formed to defeat him. It has also laid an egg in Secretary Sherman's bonnet. He firmly believes that he will get resumption under way in a manner that it will maintain itself. This, if it proves correct, would be a long stride and entitle him to the respect and favor of the money power. Hence, in his desire to make Ohio the stamping ground for his political aggrandizement, he has three cards to play—all, of course, contingent upon success First, the executive office; second, a senatorship, to which the former will be a stepping stone; and third, the presidency

A BIT OF POLITICAL HISTORY

In Illinois there is in progress a lively contest for the senatorship which presents features that make it a matter of considerable general interest Two years ago the term of General Logan was about to expire and he was a candidate for re election He failed and now is trying to supersede Oglesby whose term will expire in March next, and who it is almost needless to say desires to be his own successor The contest between Logan and Oglesby which has been in progress ever since the general election of last November, which secured a Republican majority in the legislature, has of late become exceedingly bitter and, since the majority for their party in the legislature is but five or six votes, it may result in the failure of both and the selection of Washburne or perhaps some less conspicuous man Oregon is by no means the only state which has a surplus of statesmen who periodically get in each other's way But the interest which the Illinois contest has for outsiders arises mainly from the explanations developed by the quarrel of the singular election of two years ago when Judge Davis was chosen and the plan of the Democrats in assenting to the electoral commission was totally deranged It was the selfishness of Logan that did it all Neither political party had an actual majority in the legislature at that time, and the balance of power was held by about a half dozen Independents Logan could get none of these He was also particularly odious to the Democrats, who were resolved to beat him at all hazards. But there were certain of the Independents who were willing to support some other Republican, and a number of them voted all one day for Washburne, who would have been successful on any ballot had the body of Republicans voted for him. They were, however, held away from him by the caucus pledges which Logan had exacted. Some of his present opponents, who were supporting him then, say he declared that if he could not be elected no other Republican should, and he persisted till the combination was formed through which Davis was successful Among the other things which have come to light recently is the fact that Mr Farwell of Chicago, a Republican member of the lower branch of congress, could have been elected, but he was on the ground supporting Logan, and declined to entertain the proposition without Logan's consent. He even offered to take the election and resign before the end of the session, or wait till it was over and resign, and give the governor a chance to appoint Logan to the vacancy This offer he was led to make solely, as he says, that a Republican senator might not be lost, but it was an offer to go much farther than any obligations to party can rightfully require. Logan, however, would not consent, and some of the disgusted Republicans who had been supporting him against their will joined the Independents and Democrats in electing Judge Davis.

The more reputable Republicans of the country did not much lament the failure of Logan. But the Democrats for the time were wild with delight. Always regarding Logan as a [illegible], they were overjoyed that he was beaten, and so great was their ecstasy that they did not stop at once to observe how their victory over him was about to cost them [illegible] commission was being constituted Had not Judge Davis been elected senator he would undoubtedly have been a member of it, under the law, in place of Judge Bradley, in which case every principal decision of the commission would have been different from what it was, and Tilden would be president of the United States. Thus Logan's conduct, which is alleged against him as a fault, did his party a greater service than he ever rendered it in any other way The manner in which Davis was elected constrained him to decline acting as judge between the two parties, and as he wanted the senatorship he would not refuse it, even in view of the political emergency that would have placed the decision of the presidential question in his hands He was the more inclined to this from the fact that he had been coquetting with the "labor reformers" and encouraging a third party movement, and did not wish to identify himself with either of the great parties in the presidential controversy. Yet there can be no doubt that had he been a member of the electoral commission his decisions would have made Tilden president—and he would have been a member of the commission except for the chance that elected him senator. Thus the defeat of "Jack" Logan two years ago, which the Democrats were so eager to accomplish, was to them the most unfortunate in its consequences of all political revenges And now the Republicans in turn are about to slaughter Logan for the selfishness he evinced on that occasion, when he unintentionally did his party so large a service If the results return to plague them, as the results of his former defeat have plagued the Democrats, they also will find that punishing Logan doesn't pay

OUR ENGLISH MARKET.

There is a view of the probable results of the present extraordinary depression of industry and trade in England under which it is not unlikely that we of the Pacific northwest, as an agricultural community may after a while be affected England is our principal and best customer for wheat. It is suggested by the Pacific Rural Press that causes are now in operation which may and probably will sooner or later exert an influence on her purchasing power That journal says "It is plain that our manufacturers, by filling our own demand for their goods, and by sapping the foundation of England's trade in the same articles in other parts of the world, are fast crippling England's manufacturing progress Thus it seems that Americans, by supplying unlimited wheat to England, and manufactures to the rest of the world, are endeavoring both to stuff and to starve John Bull at the same moment If we should further pursue this phenomena of cross purposes on the part of Brother Jonathan, it would probably seem that his boys Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have their hands upon the throat of the goose which lays the golden eggs for the agricultural communities of the west This position is supported by citations from an elaborate review furnished by the London Trade Journal for December which shows a marked decline in the exports of British manufactures and at the same large increase of food importation The statistics show in the first place that in 1872 exports of British manufactures reached their highest amount, and during the next five years declined more than $200,000 000, while at the same time imports increased $200 000 000. It is also shown that during the same five years the value of British home produce and manufactures declined $280 000 000, and United States home produce and manufactures increased $175,000,000 From these figures it appears first that Great Britain has been steadily increasing her purchases and decreasing her sales at an alarming rate second that while British home industries have declined notably, United States home industries have advanced notably But the most pertinent showing between Great Britain and the United States is found in another comparison indicating that during the five years above cited American exports to Great Britain increased $100, 000 000 British exports to this country decreased $120 000 000 Thus it clearly appears how largely we have pushed our produce upon the British and at the same time reduced our patronage of her industries Facts like these furnish large material for comment in the English press which in most cases takes the form of censure of the United States for her existing tariff system but this is without sound reason, since every nation has an unquestioned right to take care of itself and in pursuance thereof to adopt and adhere to such policy as will best promote its own interests Great Britain herself has always pursued this course and her principal colonies now do so even to the extent of levying duties on imports from the mother country the same as elsewhere That the English market for our wheat will fail us no one need fear, but if we continue to push competition more and more with English manufactures, as we probably shall, it is likely we shall not find the English market for our agricultural products increasing so fast in future as it has done in the past But England has had periods of depression ere this and has struggled through them The boundless energy of her people, backed by a commercial sagacity which never has been surpassed, may be trusted for every emergency

PORTLAND H. W. S.

On Puget Sound there are several smart towns whose growth and progress we are pleased to note. No one of them is making extraordinary strides, but they are, without exception, we think, exhibiting a steady and healthful growth Each thinks itself the coming metropolis, a claim with which no body ought to find fault, albeit they dispute the point somewhat vigorously with each other. Occasionally their newspapers forget the rivalries of their respective towns long enough to join in an attack on the supremacy of Portland, a city which they are quite sure has no right to be so large and prosperous as it is The Tacoma Herald speaks of this as "the city that was and is but should not be greatest," adding that, "Portland today has a population of about 20 000 inhabitants She is possessed of unusual wealth is a beautifully located inland city, has few natural and many acquired advantages, controls the commerce of the Pacific northwest, and essays to make her lease of supremacy and power perpetual She has the advantage of capital, influence and present supremacy But her years of greatness are numbered" The Seattle Intelligencer attempts a comparison of the business of Seattle with that of Portland, and reaches the conclusion that "Portland must either, by direct railroad connection, become a factor to some port on Puget Sound, open at all seasons of the year, or surrender all pretensions as a commercial town." We should be glad, indeed, if the remainder of the road between Portland and Puget Sound were built since it would facilitate an intercourse which would be beneficial to the country at large, and not less so to [illegible] But our neighbors are in error in their supposition that this city could, through any system of railways, be transferred to Puget Sound, or lose the commercial position it has acquired Portland has now reached such a stage of growth that any development of the country will add to her wealth, population and importance. One or more cities will grow up at Puget Sound, and Portland will grow too. It is an impossible that one place cannot grow without injuring another Every year for a quarter of a century we have read in some papers published at this place or that, that Portland was sure to decline, that the days of her greatness were numbered, and all that sort of thing Observation has taught that those who are speculating in town sites on other localities on this supposition should be a little careful about it Other towns will grow of course, but not at the expense of Portland That Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Astoria and other places are prosperous we are glad to know. But Portland is prosperous too, and never had such prospects as now I may be doubted whether all the towns in Oregon and Washington taken together could show so many improvements and so large growth as Portland can exhibit for 1878, and for 1879 there will be equal or greater progress Portland has wealth and energy which will assure her future, and while she is glad to hear of the progress of other places and to witness the confidence with which they speak of their future, she fears no rival and thinks of none

In the execution of the Indians who murdered George Coggan last summer there is an excellent and salutary example which will be further enforced when the murderers of the Perkins family in Yakima are similarly punished. In the regular execution o justice, according to the forms and usages of law, there are impressive lessons for Indians which always serve a good purpose while any attempt to wreak revenge upon them in a violent and irregular manner only prepares the way for further troubles It is a bad example and they can always go beyond it

It is not easy to see why Swards, who is convicted of murder in the second degree and so escapes hanging, is not as criminal as his associates who are under sentence of death, but various considerations, among which are the youth of the prisoner and the probability that he was not the originator of the scheme of robbery which led to the murder, seem to have inclined the jury to leniency So Swards goes to the state prison for life

Letters from Germany express the opinion that the exodus from that country and England will be heavier the coming year than has been known since 1854 With the balance of trade still in our favor requiring the shipment of a large amount of foreign coin to settle it, and a large foreign immigration besides the prospect of better times is certainly encouraging

Although ice formed in our rivers during the recent cold spell the lowest temperature here was twenty four degrees above zero as against twenty to thirty degrees below zero in many of the eastern and middle states It was somewhat colder up the Columbia than here which accounts for the ice in that stream

Another Opinion on Grover.

[From the Chicago Tribune]

What little of character for integrity there was left to Gov Grover after the exposure of his share in the conspiracy of which Cronin was the product is considerably disfigured by the report of the commission appointed by the Oregon legislature to examine into the records of his administration as governor of that state This commission reports the discovery of an extended series of transactions of a corrupt and unlawful character involving a total of $97 000 which has either been unaccounted for or paid over without authority of law It is found that the school fund has been mismanaged and plundered shamefully to the profit of numerous individuals According to the report it was a case of "gobbling on a bigger and more successful scale than that which had anything view the stealing of an electoral vote for Tilden

A new church has just been completed at Port Gamble The building is 28x44 feet in dimensions, with a lofty spire rising from the center in front and is handsomely finished within It will be free to all denominations and is an ornament as well as a credit to the place

CITY.

HORSE STEALING.—A bold attempt was made a few days ago by some parties to get away with six fine American horses, one a brother to Parrot, the noted Oregon trotter, belonging to Mr. Westlake, and kept by him on his farm near Albany. Mr. Westlake himself lives in California, but has a son in the county clerk's office at Albany who acts as agent for his father in looking after the farm, which, with its stock, is in direct charge of one A. Blanchard. About a week ago Blanchard left the farm with the horses and came to this city, leaving two of them at Taylor's bridge on his way down. The remaining four he put in one of the livery stables here. He at once set about trying to dispose of them, and succeeded in bargaining a span of them to a gentleman for $400. Chief Besser heard something connected with the affair and telegraphed his suspicions that all was not right to Sheriff Dickey of Linn county. Mr. Dickey at once went to young Westlake and told him, but Westlake was hardly willing to believe that the suspicions of the officials were well grounded. He however accompanied the sheriff to his father's farm, where they found a hired man who made some unsatisfactory excuse for Blanchard's absence. Young Westlake and the sheriff returned to Albany and next morning went back to the farm, but still were unable to get any sufficient reason from the hired man as to where Blanchard was or what he was going to do with the horses. They again returned to Albany and took the train for Portland. In the meantime Chief Besser had taken Blanchard into custody. When Dickey and Westlake reached this city all hands became convinced that there was a conspiracy on the part of Blanchard and two or three other men to steal the horses. Blanchard let some remarks drop which implicated others, and accordingly on yesterday Zed Wilson was arrested and warrants are out for two other men whose names will not be given to the public until the officials have an opportunity to apprehend them. If Zed succeeds in keeping out of the penitentiary this time it will add to his many narrow escapes and illustrate his great tact in eluding the penalties of violated law. He will go up to Albany this morning in company with Blanchard, both in charge of Sheriff Dickey, and be put in the Albany jail to await the marshalling of the testimony and the preliminary examination.

HALLOR HOLLIDAY?—The arrest of Mr. S. W. Hall, of Olympia, a telegraphic account of which we published last week, by virtue of a warrant issued by the governor of Washington territory, upon a requisition from the governor of Illinois for delivery of the body of George H. Holliday to Deputy Sheriff Delaney, of Macoupin county, Illinois, was made on Sunday night last in Olympia, and created much astonishment. The Standard and Transcript both speak of Mr. Hall as the law partner of Judge Dennison, and because of his gentlemanly deportment and conduct during an eight years' residence in Olympia, express the hope that it may turn out to be a case of mistaken identity, as was claimed by Mr. Hall in an application for a writ of habeas corpus, which was issued and a hearing had before his honor Judge Green at Kalama on Wednesday last. At the hearing Deputy Sheriff Delaney testified positively to the identity of the applicant as George H. Holliday, formerly clerk of Macoupin county, during whose term of office there was an overissue of county bonds, for explanation of which Mr. Holliday's presence is desired. A photograph of Holliday taken 12 or 15 years ago was in Olympia for several weeks prior to the arrest, and by many who saw it pronounced that of Mr. Hall. Some of his friends who have seen it since fail to discover his likeness to it.

As the case stands we forbear any expression of opinion as to the identity, which is the sole question raised by the defendant. He is in the city on his way to Illinois in charge of the deputy sheriff to appear in the court there which will decide the question. We learn that he has many friends in Washington territory who earnestly hope for his release and return to Olympia.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.—Last evening there was a great excitement at the corner of First and Washington streets, and several thousand persons assembled in that vicinity in a very short space of time. The occasion of the excitement was as follows: As special officer Barton was making his accustomed rounds he discovered the back door of Clark & Henderson's store open. He at once surmised that the place was being burglarized. As the officer was alone he did not dare to leave the door to give the alarm for fear that the burglar might make good his escape, so he began to blow his whistle vigorously. This attracted the attention of several officers, who came running to the scene, and also an immense crowd. The store was lighted and thoroughly searched by several officers, but no one was found. At length the owners of the store arrived and it was ascertained that the back door had been left open by accident. When the real facts became known the crowd quickly dispersed.

DEATH BY SUICIDE.—In a late San Francisco exchange is found the following particulars of the suicide of a Portlander in that city, of whose death there was a brief allusion in the dispatches a few days ago: John H. Coore, who arrived in this city from Portland, Oregon, on the steamer Republic, the 20th instant, was found last evening, suspended by the neck from the gas fixtures in his room, at No. 350 Fourth street. After adjusting the noose about his neck he kicked away the chair upon which he was standing, but the length of the rope permitted his feet to touch the floor. The landlord states that the door of the room had been bolted since Sunday, and the body was quite rigid when discovered. No papers were found which throw any light upon the cause of the suicide. The deceased was about 50 years of age.

CONTINUATION OF THE WEEK OF PRAYER.—The Presbyterian, Baptist and Congregational churches will continue religious services this week on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. After deliberation it was thought best to hold them in the hall of the Y. M. C. A., owing to its central location and its unsectarian, broad Christian platform, where all Christians can feel at home. Pastors Lindsley, Coats and Cruzan join in urging their congregations to take hold of this work heartily and earnestly. Comfortable sittings will be provided for 400 persons. Thursday night the churches will each hold services in their own edifices. Those who are not Christians are cordially invited to all these meetings.

FOR VANCOUVER.—Last Saturday the mails were brought over to this city from Vancouver on the steamer Traveler. The steamer Lurline started from this city for Vancouver last Saturday, but failed to reach that point. The Lurline got out into the Columbia without difficulty, but encountered ice a short distance above the mouth of the Willamette. The ice extended for a distance of six or seven miles up the Columbia. This morning at 9 o'clock the steamer Lurline will leave here for Vancouver. If the Columbia is filled with ice, the steamer will cross to the Washington territory side where passengers, mails, freight, etc., will be landed.

"SOFT, NO HASTE."—Says the Salem Statesman: "We should think THE OREGONIAN could afford to give credit once in a while for the numerous items clipped from this paper, but we guess it can't; anyhow, it don't do it, and we're getting our back up about it. Some day we will fall on that paper and 'squash' it." Before the Statesman allows its back to get up so very high, let us gently suggest that as it prints every day in the year several columns of OREGONIAN matter, and never thinks of giving credit, it is filling up with wrath for nothing.

HALL STREET CHURCH.—Religious service will be held every night this week at the Hall street church. Rev. Mr. Laubach, Rev. Mr. Lichtenthaler and others will conduct the meetings. The public is cordially invited to attend and to participate in the services.

AT ST. HELENS.—The steamer Oregon, which has been lying for several days at Willow Bar is bound, has gone down to St. Helens, where she is at present. If possible, the steamer will come up the river to-day.

OFF THE SANDS.—By a dispatch from Astoria it is learned that the British ship Allegiance, which grounded a few days ago while coming in over the bar at the mouth of the Columbia, has been got off. The several tugs which went to her assistance succeeded in getting the vessel out of her position of peril, though not without much trouble. The Allegiance was brought up to Astoria where she is lying at present. Fortunately the vessel escaped with very slight damage.

CHINESE MISSION SCHOOL.—In the report of the Chinese Mission school, published a few days ago, the names of three teachers were inadvertently omitted, namely, Miss Ida Clinger and Miss Alice Doublebower, who have been in the school since its organization, and Miss Minnie Greenstreet. The school has had vacation for three weeks past, during which time the room has been refitted and made more convenient and comfortable. Exercises will be resumed this evening.

COURSE OF LECTURES.—The tickets for the course of lectures to be delivered at Masonic Hall under the auspices of the Philomathean Literary Society have just been issued. The following are the names of the lecturers and the dates: Judge J. H. Reed, January 31st; Rev. M. May, February 14th; Hon. J. N. Dolph, February 28th; Rev. J. A. Cruzan, March 14th; Rev. T. L. Eliot, March 28th. Judge Matthew P. Deady, April 11th.

MEETING.—The board of managers of the Young Men's Christian Association will meet to-night at the association rooms at 7 o'clock. It is especially requested that the members of standing committees be present, and that all come promptly, so as not to interfere with the gospel meeting to be held in the rooms at 7:30 o'clock.

RESERVED SEATS.—Subscribing members of the Handel and Haydn Society can obtain reserved seats for the forthcoming concert at Morse's to-day, any time after 9 o'clock. The box-sheet will be open to the general public after 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

VERDICT OF GUILTY.—After a short deliberation, the jury in the case of the State of Oregon vs. Jacob Swards, one of the O'Shea robbers, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. Swards was tried on a charge of murder in the first degree.

WILL SEND BOATS.—The O. S. N. Co. will send out their boats this morning at the usual hour. The steamer Emma Hayward will start for the Cascades and the Welcome for Astoria carrying mails and passengers.

NO ICE.—For the information of those abroad who may be under the impression that the Willamette is closed with ice, we will state that there has been no ice in the river here for several days past.

STEAMER PASSENGERS.—The steamer Wonder effected communication Saturday with the Oregon, and brought to this city all the passengers, express matter and the mails.

MAILS ARRIVED.—The mails from The Dalles arrived in this city Saturday. It will be the last overland mail, as a boat will be sent to the Cascades this morning.

OVERRULED.—In the U. S. district court, Saturday morning, Judge Deady overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of U. S vs. W. C. Griswold.

AT ASTORIA.—At 10 o'clock A. M. yesterday the following dispatch was received from Trenchard & Upshur: "Bar rough, no wind, very foggy."

PERSONAL.

Says the Vancouver Independent: Lieut. C. E. S. Wood of General Howard's staff, with his bride, is expected to return here by next San Francisco steamer.

In the Cleveland (Ohio) Leader of Dec. 15 we observe the following paragraph:

Col. John M. Wilson, recently engaged in improvement of the Columbia river and stationed at Portland, Oregon, has been placed in charge of the harbor works between Erie, Pa., and Monroe, Michigan, with headquarters in this city. By this arrangement Col. Wilson relieves Gen. Michler, stationed at Toledo who goes on a leave of absence to Europe, according to report. For the past two years Gen. Michler has had charge of the harbor works on Lake Erie west of Cleveland. The arrangement also gives to Col. Wilson the territory between Cleveland and Erie, inclusive, thus relieving Col. McFarland of Oswego of that much of his territory. Since the removal of Col. Blunt he (Col. McFarland) has had an unusually large assignment, and lopping off from Erie here is but justice to him.

Col. Wilson has already relieved General Michler, and will relieve Col. McFarland in a few days, taking up his home in Cleveland about the 1st of January. He will have a staff of clerks, draughtsmen, etc., and comes here with a record, having done good service at Portland and Oswego, where he was stationed just prior to his going to the East. He is a West Pointer, is 41 years old, and the change cannot but result in a benefit to the harbor here.

Col. Wilson was in the city for a short time yesterday, stopping at the Weddell, and left on the afternoon train for Buffalo.

UP THE COLUMBIA.

Dispatches from up the Columbia last evening at 5 o'clock indicate the following state of the weather:

Walla Walla—Clear; thermometer 36°, wind southwest.

The Dalles—Cloudy; thermometer 40°; no wind; trying to rain.

Wallula—Clear; wind up stream; thermometer 36°; little ice running but no new ice—it is what has broken off from the shore above, I think.

Scotts—Cloudy; thermometer 42°, light rain commencing to fall; no wind.

Cascades—Cloudy and raining hard; thermometer 38°; light up stream wind; about the same amount of ice running as this morning; river looks clear of ice above upper Cascades as far as can be seen.

Hood River—Raining hard; heavy up-stream wind; thermometer, 36°; little ice running.

Celilo—Light fall of rain; wind up-stream; thermometer, 42°, considerable ice floating.

Don't forget to call to-day and take a sitting at Abell's. You know it is best to do to-day what might be done to-morrow.

IN A STATE OF SIEGE.—The public have found where to get furniture elegant, substantial and cheap, and are flocking to Edwards & Birmingham's, where everything to make a home comfortable can be found. Come one come all! Corner Second and Yamhill streets, up stairs.

AMUSEMENTS.

SATURDAY'S MATINEE.—"Diplomacy" was repeated on Saturday afternoon, and was greeted with a large audience, of whom the greater number were ladies and children. The performance altogether was a delight, and was right heartily applauded.

THE "TWO ORPHANS."—There was a very noticeable and encouraging increase in the attendance at the New Market theater on Saturday night. The dress circle was almost entirely filled, many of the orchestra chairs were occupied and the gallery was crowded. The "Two Orphans" was produced with the same caste as when played last week, and gave the same general satisfaction.

OTHELLO.—Shakespeare's great tragedy of "Othello" will be presented at New Market Theater this (Monday) evening. This tragedy has not been produced in Portland for some years, and certainly ought to attract an overflowing house. Mr. Lindsay will personate the character of the jealous Moor, Mr. Piercy that of the subtle and crafty "Iago," Miss Woodthorpe the fair "Desdemona," Miss Walters, "Emilia," supported by the full company. In the Cincinnati Enquirer we observe the following complimentary mention of Mr. Piercy: "Edwin Booth could, without loss to himself or his managers, strike 'Othello,' so far as the title role is concerned, from his repertoire. The 'Iago' of this evening was Mr. S. W. Piercy, of California, and it is not saying enough for him that he divided the honors with the great tragedian. He was cool, easy and natural, and fully lived up to the lesson taught by the text, that knavery never shows its face until used. It was a more than a creditable first performance of one of the most difficult roles in the range of the drama, by a young actor who is fast mounting into the enchanted world where stars live."

BRIEF NOTES.

Still moderating.

"Blood, Iago, blood."

Quite warm up the Columbia.

The ball season is upon us, but as yet there have been only a few.

The steamer Dixie Thompson is undergoing an overhauling at the boneyard.

White Owl and Quit-a-Tumps have paid the extreme penalty of the law.

Ted Marks is in town again after living on short rations on the Oregon. He will use printers' ink soon.

The Philomathean Literary Society will meet in Scandinavian Hall this evening and discuss the question "Should the management of Indians be transferred to the War Department."

MILITARY NOTES.

Major George B Sanford, 1st cavalry, with his command, will press to a junction with the column of Captain Evan Miles, 21st infantry, without stopping him, and will push forward on the Indian trail.

Captain Harry C. Egbert, 12th infantry, will proceed with his command to Indian valley and towards Payette lakes, watching well against returning hostiles in that direction—operating from Baker City as his depot of supplies.

The secretary of war directs that married soldiers, who have but a short period to serve, and who do not propose to re-enlist by reason of having families, should, in case of change of station, involving expense, either be granted an absolute discharge by the department commander, or be transferred temporarily to some company of the same regiment remaining behind at the post, or stationed at some more convenient post.

Captain Reuben F. Bernard, 1st cavalry, will proceed with his command to Lewiston, Idaho, supplying himself en route from Walla Walla. The column will be organized north of Snake river, between Lapwai and Mount Idaho, and will be commanded by the senior officer until arrival of the general commanding. The column will go out with whatever force and watch well all trails between Salmon and Snake rivers.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

To the Honorable the Judge of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah: The grand jury for the current October term, 1878-9, of said court, do make to your honor the following report. A very large amount of business has been presented to us during the term, necessitating our remaining in session for 31 days.

We have found and presented to the court since the beginning of the term sixty-two indictments for felony, many of them for offenses of the gravest character, and in noting the verdicts of trial juries we have observed that a large proportion of the indictments thus found by us, have been sustained. We have also examined and ignored a considerable number of complaints coming before us. We have visited the county hospital, the city and county jails and the lunatic asylum, and find them all well kept and so far as we have been able to observe, proper discipline therein maintained.

We have examined the books and records of each of the county offices and find the same kept in an orderly and intelligent manner, and the offices conducted in such a way as to reflect credit upon the respective occupants thereof.

We think it but just to say that in our deliberation and labors we have been greatly assisted by the tireless, intelligent and efficient labors of J. F. Caples, Esq., district attorney for this judicial district. J. L. BARNARD, Foreman Grand Jury.

FEAST OF EPIPHANY.

Says the Catholic Sentinel:—On Monday last, at the beautiful feast of Epiphany, the Rev. clergy of the Cathedral were agreeably surprised when the venerable Archbishop informed them that forty years ago, on that very same day, he celebrated, in a log church built in 1838, the first Mass ever offered up to God in the Willamette valley. A large congregation of delighted people witnessed the august ceremony, for which they had prayed and petitioned since 1834. In the mission that followed, 25 marriages were solemnized, and 74 persons baptized.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

On the 23d inst, the Concordia Club will give a ball at Turn Halle.

A ball will be given for the benefit of the German school on Friday night, the 24th instant.

INDIANS HANGED.

White Owl and Quit-a-tumps Executed at Pendleton for the Murder of George Coggan.

THEY CONFESS THEIR GUILT BUT REFUSE TO ACKNOWLEDGE THE JUSTICE OF THEIR FATE—HANGING PASSES OFF WITHOUT ANY DISTURBANCE FROM INDIANS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PENDLETON, Jan. 10,

Via WALLA WALLA, Jan. 11.

The execution of White Owl and Quit-a-tumps, for the murder of George Coggan near Cayuse Station, last July, took place this afternoon. Both were reservation Indians, who took part in the war against the whites last summer. Thursday and Thursday night were passed by the Indians in chanting death songs and bidding their friends good bye. The ceremonies at the gallows were conducted according to rites of the Indian religion. Both White Owl and Quit-a-tumps refused to have anything to do with the Catholic priests, or to receive other spiritual consolation. They were attired in clothes given them by the whites, and their faces were gaudily painted. Both made short speeches from the scaffold confessing that they did the shooting, but refused to acknowledge the justice of their fate. They continued, singing death chants until the drop fell at 2:45 P. M. The fall dislocated their necks, and both died without hardly a struggle. After hanging for seven minutes they were pronounced dead. The bodies were cut down and delivered to the Indians for disposition. The bodies will be buried to-morrow. Considerable demonstration will be made over the body of Quit-a-tumps.

A detachment of the First Cavalry, under Maj. Jackson, and a number of citizen volunteers were stationed outside the jail enclosure during the execution. The military will remain at the agency until after the hanging of Aps, which will take place next Friday. Considerable uneasiness is felt as to the result of the execution, and it is not known but that the Indians may attempt to revenge the deaths next summer. Indians profess great friendship, but many believe it only assumed.

The execution to-day was witnessed by about 100 persons, including 10 Indians. A great crowd collected on the outside of the jail enclosure and on surrounding housetops.

Everything passed of quietly. It is hoped the hanging will prove a salutary lesson to the Indians.

THE CREATION.

This greatest of all Oratorios, the work of Joseph Haydn, will be produced on Friday evening next, at the New Market theater, by our local society, the "Handel and Haydn." This is quite an ambitious effort for so young a society, but the positive excellence of the material and the well known perseverance and ability of its leader render the result beyond doubt. In addition to the full chorus, numbering, we believe, not less than sixty, the orchestra to be used on this occasion will be very much larger and more complete than has ever before been heard in the city. It will be composed of the following instruments, viz: Three first violins, three second violins, one viola, one cello and two basses, two flutes, two clarionets, three cornets, two French horns, one trombone and the piano, which will be manipulated by Mr. Vinton, one of the conservatory teachers, and the accompanist of the society. The soprano soloists will be Miss Sutton, Miss Packard and Mrs. Parrish, and the tenors Mr. Franklin and Mr. Johnson; the bass soloist being Mr. Atkinson. Since the last concert the membership of the society has largely increased, and the number of the chorus will be almost doubled. Rehearsals are being held almost nightly and we do not for a moment hesitate to predict a complete success. The dress circle have also arranged so that admission to the gallery can be had at fifty cents. Fancy an Oratorio entertainment at that rate! There certainly can't be many who can now plead the rate of admission being too high as an excuse for absence from such a concert. The diagram will be open at 9 A. M. Monday morning to subscribers only, and for the general public on Tuesday at the same hour. This, the giving of a complete Oratorio without the aid of any foreign talent, is certainly an event in the history of our city, and should meet with the unqualified approval and patronage of our public.

FIRE MATTERS.

Business dull.

Who are the candidates, is now the word.

The fire record of the year shows that No. 3 has had first water more times than any other company.

The board of delegates will consider the matter of the appointment of the police at their meeting next Thursday evening.

John Slavin, first assistant of No. 4's, who was injured at the late fire, by having a wall drove through his foot, is able to be on the street again.

But $3.75 remains of the $8,000 appropriated by the council for No. 1's new house,—just the price of a ton of salt in keg of Gambrinus. Can't the council give a hint?

Would it not be a good idea to organize an engine company in the northern part of town and give them the hand engine lately housed in the corporation shed?

"When the horse is stolen lock the barn." The people in the northern part of the city now want a cistern at the corner of Fifth and Everett streets. They will have it, too.

Last evening the lady friends of Frank Reed engineer of No. 5, pleasantly surprised him about the time he was going to bed, and inviting him to a grand "lay out," spent the greater part of the evening in having a jolly good time.

Barnes & Co., 65 First, prepare excellent meals daily from 7 A. M. to 12 P. M.

PREVENTION OF DIPHTHERIA.

PORTLAND, Jan. 12, 1879.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me to thank you for your editorial in Saturday's OREGONIAN entitled "The Recent Southern Epidemic," and to suggest that most of the known phenomena of yellow fever are also phenomena of a disease more to be dreaded in Oregon—diphtheria. Diphtheria, equally with yellow fever, is the result of importation. Its transmission between different points is wholly due to human intercourse, or at least to infected articles. Disinfectants are valueless and medical skill is unavailing for its prevention or cure by means of drugs. Absolute non-intercourse with a patient suffering from it alone prevents its spread. It is a highly contagious and very dangerous disease.

No sanitary precautions are sufficient to prevent its spread; indeed no atmosphere or other conditions seem to be necessary to its propagation. It is as fatal in the palace of the prince as the hovel of the peasant. As the introduction of yellow fever in the south can be traced to two cases upon a single ship, and as proper precautions to prevent contagion from these cases would have saved thousands of lives, so the importation of diphtheria into this state could with proper inquiry be traced to a single case or cases, and with proper quarantine regulations the lives of hundreds of children might have been saved. For the want of such precautions the children are dying in various parts of the state even now. The ignorance, the superstition and the criminal negligence which prevails concerning it is surprising. Parents who knowingly go where the disease is and then convey it into their households and thus cause the death of their children by acts that can be characterized as nothing less than criminal lay the death of their offspring upon Divine Providence. People go from the bedside of patients suffering from this disease upon the public streets and mingle in the public assemblies and convey the germs of death in their clothing, to be scattered broadcast in the community. The ordinances of the city of Portland requiring notice to be given of cases of diphtheria and a flag to be displayed where diphtheria exists are disregarded. Children from families where there are cases of this disease have to be sent by the teachers from the public schools, and only yesterday a child, after mingling with its classmates in a Sabbath school in this city, was sent home because it was stated there was a case of diphtheria in the family.

It is stated upon what appears to be good authority that not long since a person here on a visit died of diphtheria, in this state, in the family of a gentleman well known to the writer, who had a bright little girl of two or three years old, and that the father took the little innocent and carried it into the room to see the corpse. As might have been expected, in a few days the child died of diphtheria, a result which might have been anticipated with almost as unerring certainty as death might have been expected if a dose of poison had been administered to the child.

Let us have more intelligent effort to prevent this disease by non intercourse with it, and less superstition, less carelessness, less cant about "afflictions of Providence;" more attention to man's agency in producing these afflictions.

This communication may seem harsh to some who have been afflicted by this dread disease, but I write for the defenseless ones—the children, your own, children and my children, exposed to death by the criminal carelessness of others. I am willing to stir some indignation if by doing so I can also arrest the attention of the indifferent to this subject. Yours truly, PRUDENCE.

ENJOY LIFE.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can destroy no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it

OREGON.

Business is unusually dull at Independence.

Wheat is worth 82 cents per bushel at Buena Vista.

Mart Taylor is giving "shows" in Lolk and the upper counties.

A Portland man will start a ladies' dry goods store in Eugene City soon.

A great deal of pork has been packed this winter in various parts of the state.

Social parties were held in nearly all the towns in the state on New Year's eve.

The Ashland academy property will be sold at auction on the 8th of February.

The late cold snap caused a suspension of mining operations in southern Oregon.

A quartz ledge has been discovered at Willow Springs, in southern Oregon, which prospects well.

A little daughter of Mr. Landenberg was severely burned a few days ago. The injuries are painful but not dangerous.

Senator Braley, of Yamhill, fell on the ice a few days ago and bruised his face terribly. He now goes about with a black eye.

Chas. Ridgeway and Jas. Fristoe, living near Sheridan, each lost a fine horse during the freeze by their falling and "snagging" themselves.

Some parties who had a grudge against Mr. Jack Cogswell, who lives near the McKenzie in Lane county, recently wantonly killed a number of his cattle.

Deputy Marshal Burns arrested three persons—a white man named John Smith and two Chinamen—for selling liquor to Indians in Yamhill county on Saturday.

The matter of the Dale defalcation in Yamhill county has not yet been settled. A plan of compromise was arranged some time ago, but a dead lock has occurred in its execution.

Thos. Raynes has been arrested in Polk county for selling liquor to Indians. He was taken from the jail at Dallas, where he has just completed a term of imprisonment for the same offense.

A registered letter receipted for by Mr. Gabbett, of Myrtle creek, and lost about two years ago, has been found in an old mail bag which had been sent to Chicago to be repaired. This clears Mr. G. of any fault in the matter.

The Lucky Queen mine has been rented for the period of one year to a Mr. Rodebaugh. The terms of lease are private with the company. Mr. Rodebaugh is an experienced miner, and after practical tests, is satisfied he can work the ore with profit.

The Eugene Guard says: Reports from farmers are that the recent cold weather has injured the fall sown grain, the thawing out of the ground having loosened the plant in the earth. Ducks and geese have also done considerable damage to fields in some parts of the county.

Plaindealer: It is now rumored that the contract for carrying the Coos Bay mail has been awarded to a man by the name of Warren, and that service will be commenced in ten days. We hope such may prove the case, but in the matter of the above named route you can't most always sometimes tell what is going to be done.

Jacksonville Sentinel: Less money in circulation now than for some time past. One reason of this is that no money has yet been taken out of our mines this season, and another is that very little stock has been sold to outside parties by the farmers and stock men of this valley. Home and cattle buyers report that they can buy cheaper in California than in this vicinity.

A meeting was held in Jacksonville last week to consider the project of building a narrow gauge railroad from that point to the coast. Most of the business men of Jacksonville, and many farmers from the surrounding country, were present, and the sentiment was unanimous in favor of the enterprise. A committee was appointed to solicit a fund to defray the expenses of a preliminary survey of the route.

Following is a report of the postoffice money order business transacted in the Roseburg postoffice during the year 1878: Number of orders issued, 1,035; the amount for which they were drawn, $16,741 96; fees received, $137 85; 429 orders paid, amounting to $10,371 72; deposited with the postmaster at Portland on money order account, $5,606; repaid orders to the amount of $165 20; commission, $75.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

"Cowichan Jim" will shortly hold a great potlatch at Nanaimo camp. Two thousand braves and others will congregate.

The waters of the Gulf of Georgia, near Entrance Island lighthouse, have been unusually calm during the last month.

Mr. R. Wingate, of the South Wellington colliery, recently fell down the hatchway of the steamer Empire, a distance of 14 feet. He was considerably bruised, but sustained no other injuries.

Mr. S. Adair has purchased a share in the canning establishment of English & Co., at New Westminster, formerly held by Mr. G. B. Wright. Mr. Adair will superintend the business of the above firm as heretofore.

The people of Victoria propose to work injury to the Chinese, and to prevent their landing in that city, by declaring the ports of China to be infected, and compelling all vessels carrying passengers from such ports, to be placed under quarantine law for a long period.

Mr. Webster Gillet, of Ann Arbor, has invented a "shunt," by the use of which conversation by means of the telephone may be carried on over the same line that is being used for ordinary telegraphy, neither instrument interfering with the other.

I firmly believe Fellows' Hypophosphites has done more good than any medicine yet discovered in the cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and kindred diseases.

W. H. THOMPSON,
Telegraph Station,
Harbour Grace, Newfoundland.

Persons suffering from impure blood, or whose health is giving away, either as ministers or those who study closely, will find Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites the material to build them up, and the tonic to keep them there.

Pugwash, N. H. DR. CLAY.

Each effort of the mind, every act of the body, will extract a volume of nervous element in proportion to the magnitude of the thought or action, and since Fellows' Hypophosphites really will supply the vis vitæ to the body, it must support the human mechanism successfully after the vigor of youth is passed.

DR. P. M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and Private Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS

public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease, in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease, mentally and physically, he has restored them to health and happiness, for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness.

has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases: Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, including Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood, in the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his, astonishing success, not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of, and never fails to give relief at once, and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time.

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints, and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health.

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success.

All surgical operations can be performed by his skilful hand, and the patient need not fear the result.

will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally, and will forward the proper medicines, or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps.

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR

has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify.

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland, requiring medical treatment of the proper kind, who desire to consult with me, will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so-called Doctors, through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them; they are knaves, prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR. PAUL M. BRENAN, the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door.
